

Dear Valued Customer,

It seems many carriers are requiring consignee approval at time of booking for Household Goods, Personal Effects and Personal Auto Shipments. This is to help protect the consignee and the shipper to make sure a clearing agent is in place and accepting of the cargo before container activity.

If possible, please provide consignee information at time of booking to help streamline this process. Your SEACORP agent will let you know if this information is required.

Thank you

